Hello,

I'd just like to say how much I enjoy this incredible website! I'm learning more interesting things about the Mulatto and Creole people! I especially love the book list and famous Creoles section. It was actually through this great site, that I started to learn more about the famous Creoles/Mulattoes that have achieved so much in this country and the rich history of the Louisiana region. This topic of Louisiana history and the history of its Mixedblood inhabitants is really interesting to me. This is wonderful for me to see, because I'm also of Mixed heritage.

What's up my Kreyol peeps???? I am youngster of about 24 in this arena. I Came through from Tex. and am Just stopping by to say hello and to check on that Creole side of the family. My Creole blood line is from New Orleans and or Baton Rouge. I still love Zydeco music though and prefer it over Brass Band (I like both just like Zydeco more) My bloodline is very old. It is three generations before me. But I still feel a connection to the people and the culture. I hate when "outsiders" are so ignorant towards our culture and heritage, but I don't let anyone make me ashamed of my Creole heritage, because it is apart of the blood that flows in my veins. I love you all!!! Creole is beautiful!!!

While researching my French ancestry on my father's side ROCHON, I discovered that it is connected with the French Creole history in Louisiana. It appears that most French Creole's that are descended from the Rochon family do not know much about the Rochon history. I know much and am happy to share it with anyone who is interested.

I am of Creole descent and it has been hard for me to just fit in with whites or blacks because in my heart I know that I am unique. I felt so proud when viewing this website and reading the articles about our people, and the poem that expressed true Creole pride. I learned so much that I didn't know and I truly feel at peace. Thank you, thank you, thank you.
